The Collective

about me

A New York Times award-winning writer, insightful dramaturg, and innovative, results-proven agile producer with 20+ years of experience creating content, and directing a broad variety of programming + projects, shoestring to multi-million dollar budgets, while developing and leading cross-functional teams to 100% successful outcomes --- I am compelled by my purpose for being to do the work I do at the intersection of artistry and activism - to help make us all and our world a better place. For me that coalesces into our being fully free.

Most recently I have been working on updating candi dugas collective's infrastructure, implementing its 2023-28 strategic plan - which includes gathering our Collective, and moving our scripts to production.
